July 16.—There were the from cholera at rday, sixty-one at Manwo at Samanoud and of Garfield was ended with the verdict in the recent star route trials. Two of the defendants in the trials were so intimately connected with the Republican canvass of 1860, and one of them at least so connected because of his relations with the star route contrac-tors, that the very remarkable history of that canvass has been really in their power to tell. The statement is that Dorsey arranged and managed the celebrated Fifth-Avenue Hotel con-ference, by means of which campaign money for the Republicans was raised; that Garfield there promised that Levi P. Morton should be made secretary of the treasury and also that the refunding of United States bonds should be given to a New York syndicate to be designated by the ber elections. For the November election more than $2,000,000 wer raised, partly by Brady and the star routers.
Much of it was spent in Indiana. In the winter, Congress passed the funding law, but Garfield could not carry out the agreement with the syndicate, because Sperman got Hayes to veto the bill, therman then got even for Garfield's going back on him in the convention. Dorsey found that Garfield had other agreements, resulting in the appointment of MacVeagh and James to the cabinet. His own advice was disat Wimbledon have the cabinet. After a discussion, a committee of three was appointed to consult with counsel for advice as to what course to pursue, and especially regarding the proposi-tion to have all saloons and beach re-sorts closed next Sunday, and at the same time have the law enforced in every other praticular, to the fullest ex-tent. This probably means the arrest of every one who violates the Sunday law in the most trivial degree-every street car driver engaged in his occu-pation, and likewise every boot-black, newsboy, iceman, baker, con-ductor and engineers of all railroads trains, and janitors in churches, and in fact every one whose occupation may call for the least degree of work on Sunday. ## A Brutal Act.

A man named Jno. Hetchell entered the variety theatre last night and took the variety theatre last night and took a seat. Presently he was approached by one of the women, named Maggle LeClair with the customary request to "treat." Instead of putting the girl off in a gentlemanly way, he kicked her, hurting her so badly that she was obliged to go home. Her husband saw the act and a fight would certainly have ensued but for the interference of hyensued, but for the interference of by-standers. Officer Doc Neeley was ca-ed in and the man arrested. It seems almost incredible that a man would thus without the slightest provication assault a woman, but those who witnessed the brutal act, say that her sole offense was asking him to treat.

Mr. Murphy's Lecture. While the Christian church was not crowded last night to hear Mr. Murphy deliver his lecture on "Things helpful and things hopeful in teaching," the audience was eminently a refined and appreciative one. The reverend gentleman handled the subject in a most able and entertaining manner, all present being benefitted by his words of wisdom. The peroration was really grand, the plea for the boys tending our vast herds, and the little ones in our cotton fields touched the hearts of all. The audience dispersed feeling that "it was good to be there."

Their Bathing Dresses.

One thing has to be said to the credit of the Atlantic City girls, all of them, the tall, graceful girls from the seaside and Brighton, from the Dennis and Haddon houses, and the girls from the cettages as well they do not see cettages as well—they do not use padded bathing suits. A gentleman who has visited several of the other and more pretentious seaside resorts has seen these delusions and snares before they were worn, and then seen them with their living skeletons inside of the in the water. Of course they are strictly for that very spirituelle style of girls known in the technology of dressmakers' art as "plank-shaped." At two or three of the fashionable resorts these symmetrical suits sorts these symmetrical suits, with padding so arranged as not to be displaced by getting wet, have been introduced, and at Cape May they are hired. At the other places they are sold. As they enable the wearer to display dimensions just where dimensions are most lacking they are considered a great public benefit. At Atlantic City none of the girls will have anything to do with them. The Philadelphia girl especially regards them with scorn and evasion. She is not that kind of a girl. In her natty little dark suit, with out a touch of color and palpitating with each onward step, she enters the breakers all by herself, and after the first douse comes up just as real and tangible and genuine as before she entered. This probably is the first season that attention has been given to really elegant bathing suits, but few of them are to be found at Atlantic City. They are well made and of good material and fit nicely, but they are not fancy. There are occasional exceptions, and a lady was seen bathing yesterday with cream-colored hose, canvas gaiters bound with blue, a red silk turban a red jersey and pale blue breeches, cut short and edged with lace. One of the most modest and yet elegant bathing suits on the beach is worn by a young married lady of Philadelphia. It is all of black, with long trousers below the skirt,
